This dataset was found on GitHub & adapted from a reddit user. The original dataset consisted of 34 sheets. I used the Materials & Food sheet, and normalized that data. The most difficult part was normalizing the required ingredients.

Dataset & Entity-Relationship Diagram (ERD)

Recipes

Contains recipe names, descriptions, sell price & buy price. Foreign key to cooking methods table.

Cooking_Methods

Describes the cooking methods for recipes, such as cooking pot, fire, and freezing

Recipe_Ingredients

Connects recipes to ingredients with quantity of ingredients

Ingredients

Includes ingredient names, caption, hearts recovered, sell price, buy price. Foreign keys to types table & dyes table

Dyes

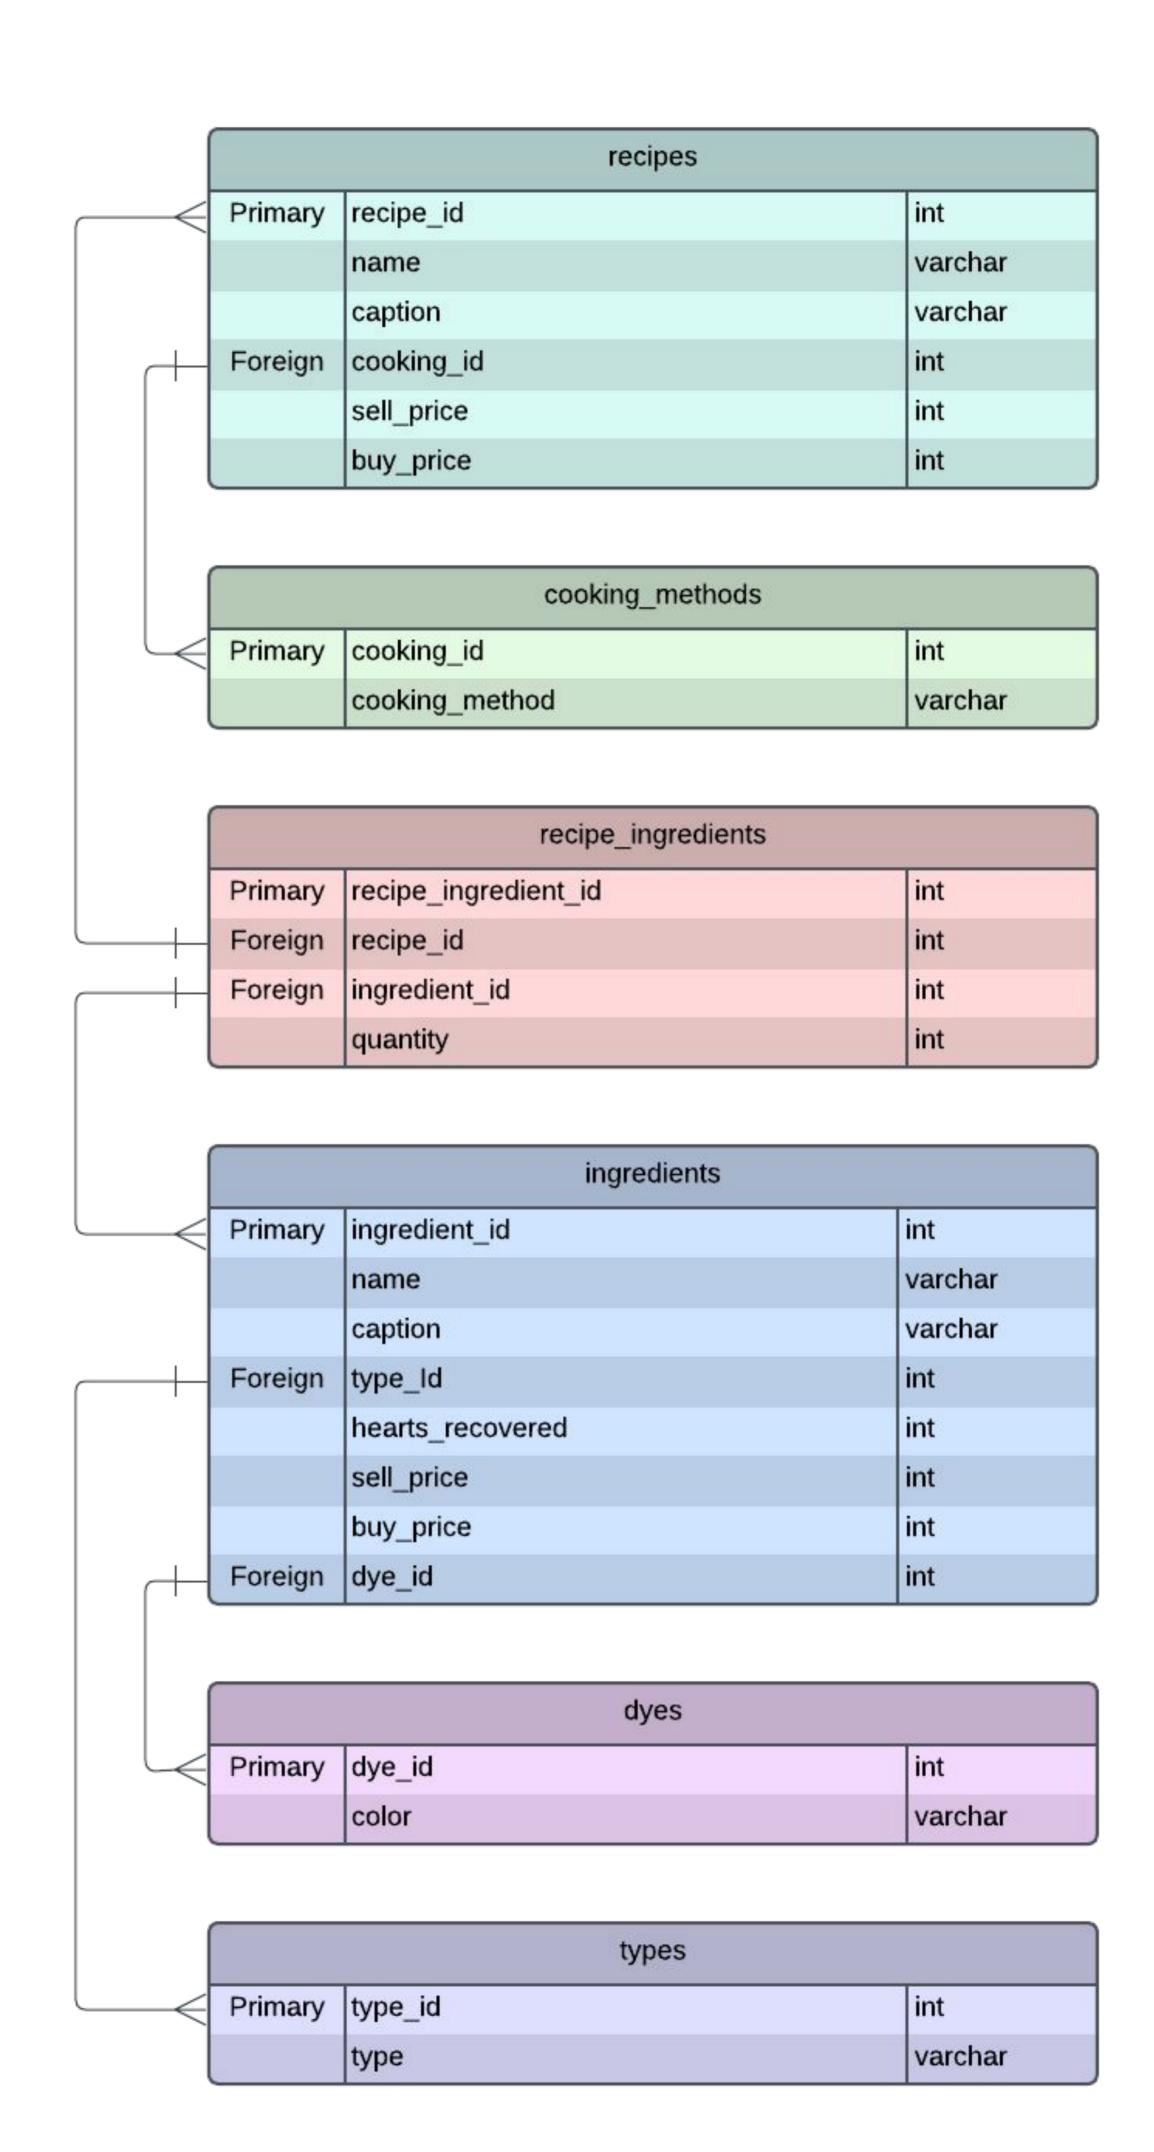

Lists possible dye colors available for ingredients

Types

Categorizes ingredients (Fruit, Mushroom, Meat, etc)

MOST EXPENSIVE MEALS (RUPEES)

Gourmet Poultry Pilaf

Made with the highest quality poultry, every bite of this pilaf floods your mouth with flavor.

596

Deep Fried Bird Roast

A deep fried whole bird of the highest grade. It's a standard item in any celebratory feast.

Fragrant Seafood Stew

A tasty dish of seafood and stambulb cooked in oil. Its aroma will whet your appetite.

MOST USED INGREDIENTS

35

Hylian Rice

This grain is a favorite among residents of Kakariko Village. It's grown in regions with a lot of water and is quite versatile. Used as an ingredient in things like risotto and rice balls.

33

Raw Meat

Meat obtained from animals in plains and forests. You can eat it raw, but cooking it will make it more delicious and nutritious.

30

Tabantha Wheat

This grain is cultivated extensively on the Tabantha Plains. It's ground finely with a millstone to be used in cooking. Use it to make things such as stews and breads.

FINAL THOUGHTS

More Insights

- How many unique recipes are budget-friendly, costing 50 rupees or less?
- Which recipes include ingredients with a specific dye color?
- Can we list all the recipes that include "Hateno Cheese?
- Which recipes offer the highest hearts recovered?
- Are there any recipes with only one type of ingredient, like "Mushroom" or "Meat"?
- Which recipes only require freezing to cook?

THANK YOU!
